Hey, Visionaries!

Starting today, registration for CTPR 409 in the Spring is open through USC WebReg! Sign-up and invite your friends who are passionate about TV production. If you're still curious about what we're producing remotely, tune-in to Virtual Vision Show Week the week of November 9th to watch content created by our current CTPR 409 students! Our 409'ers have been using StreamYard to remotely produce three original variety shows for Trojan Vision, featuring sketch comedies, news, games, cooking, sports, and music performances.

Virtual Vision shows will be aired on Facebook Live on:

Monday, November 9th at 5 PM

Tuesday, November 10th at 5 PM

Friday, November 13th at 10 AM

More about remote CTPR 409!
by Annika Limjoco, Senior Volunteer

CTPR 409 has shifted from working on shows within a studio to providing students the opportunity to produce their own segments that they have spent all semester writing and developing! Students now develop their own television show concept and see it come to life on the Trojan Vision platform! Our spectacular faculty works closely with our students to help guide them into learning about the foundations of television production. In class, we learned how to write scripts, direct a segment, become a technical director, design our own graphics and overlays, cast and work with actors, and edit videos. This unique experience was all possible through StreamYard. StreamYard is an online platform that provides students and faculty the opportunity to produce their shows as if they are in a Master Control Room.

Our current students have been working all semester to develop great shows that range from cooking to late-night news, to games! The possibilities are endless with what you can develop in this class! Although this is recorded remotely, students still have a great opportunity in producing their own segments and shows that they have always dreamed of!
